CELPIP EXPRESS

Reading Test

STUDY MATERIALS - 21

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -

PART 1

Read the following message.

Dear Joan,

I enjoyed receiving your postcards with the glowing descriptions of your recent trip to Europe. Of course, when I told Benny about your trip, he wanted to revisit Paris immediately, especially after an unusual dining experience we had here last week. Being the food critic for the Winnipeg Daily News for ten years now, Benny thought that he'd seen and tasted everything. Well, that was until last Friday night.

We went to a new restaurant called Le French, on the corner of Davis Street and Park Avenue. Imagine our surprise when we discovered that this restaurant specializes in Italian cuisine. When Benny asked the waiter why the owners decided to name an Italian restaurant Le French, he simply said, "Don't ask me!" Then a little while later, this same waiter knocked over Benny's wine glass, spilling red wine onto Benny's pants. The waiter merely said, "Oops, sorry!" and left us to fend for ourselves. After finding some extra napkins and cleaning up the wine, Benny fleetingly thought of leaving, but, being a consummate professional reviewer and hoping that the food might surpass the service, we stayed. Was that ever a mistake!

I ordered spaghetti with tomato sauce—that's about as simple a meal as you can get—and Benny decided to try the restaurant specialty, lasagna. Well, my spaghetti was not fully cooked, and the tomato sauce tasted like the canned sauces you would find on a supermarket shelf. Benny's lasagna was inedible—full of dry cheese and very little sauce. Fortunately, the fresh bread eased our hunger somewhat, although the butter was cold and much too hard to spread, which didn't improve our mood.

As we were about to leave, the restaurant owner apologized for ruining Benny's pants and said that Benny didn't have to pay for his meal. However, he did not offer to compensate Benny for his ruined trousers. Benny wants to give Le French a special award for the worst culinary experience he's ever had, but I'm trying to calm him down a bit before he writes a highly critical review.

Give us a call before you come to town next month and we'll arrange to go somewhere special to celebrate your birthday—but rest assured that it won't be Le French.

Cheers,

Tracy

Choose the best option according to the information given in the message.

1. Benny _____
- ◯ is a professional chef.
- ◯ writes reports on restaurants.
- ◯ was in Paris last week.
- ◯ dislikes Italian food.

2. Benny went with Tracy to a local restaurant which _____
- ◯ they had seen advertised in the newspaper.
- ◯ had been recommended by a friend.
- ◯ they both soon regretted visiting.
- ◯ was well established in the neighborhood.

3. Having spilled wine on Benny's pants, _____
- ◯ the waiter didn't apologize.
- ◯ the owner offered to pay for the cleaning costs.
- ◯ the waiter brought Benny an extra napkin.
- ◯ the waiter didn't help to clean up.

4. Tracy's spaghetti _____
- ◯ was much better than Benny's lasagna.
- ◯ was much worse than Benny's lasagna.
- ◯ was no better than Benny's lasagna.
- ◯ was almost as good as Benny's lasagna.

5. Benny would like to _____
- ◯ write a negative review of Le French.
- ◯ write to the owner asking for compensation.
- ◯ write to the owner and suggest an award.
- ◯ write to Joan about visiting Paris for her birthday.

6. Tracy and Benny would like to _____
- ◯ celebrate Joan's birthday at Le French.
- ◯ see Joan when she gets back from France.
- ◯ take Joan to a French restaurant.
- ◯ visit Joan before she comes home.

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -

PART 1

Here is a response to the message. Complete the response by filling in the blanks.

Hi Tracy,

It sounds like you had a really 7._____ experience at Le French. I understand why Benny would love to visit France again; both the French and Italian food here 8._____ Le French and probably anything you would find in Winnipeg. Even so, remember that Le French is a new restaurant, so maybe you should go there one more time before Benny 9._____. I know that the 10._____ was really bad, but it may be that this was not the regular waiter. Having said that, I think we should 11._____ , when we meet next month.

Take care,

Joan

7. ◯ disappointing
   ◯ awesome
   ◯ delightful
   ◯ terrifying

8. ◯ fall short of
   ◯ are better than
   ◯ are comparable to
   ◯ are for more expensive than

9. ◯ takes me there for my birthday
   ◯ calls the owner about his pants
   ◯ writes a really bad review
   ◯ visits Paris

10. ◯ owner
    ◯ spagetti
    ◯ wine
    ◯ service

11. ◯ go to a different restaurant
    ◯ eat in my Paris apartment
    ◯ avoid drinking the wine
    ◯ try Le French again

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -

PART 2

Fort Robinson

Built along a vital trading route in 1842, Fort Robinson served as a hub for the Robinson Trading Company. Visit today and learn the history and traditions of nineteenth-century Canada.

June 2 Free Admissions Day

To commemorate the Fort's 175th birthday, admission will be free for the public.

Regular Admission

Adult (19+)	$10	Admission provides access to the Trader's House, Brandt Museum, Travis Lodge, and Gift Shop. Guided tours operate every 20 minutes.
Student (13-18)	$6
Youth (6-12) *	$4
Child (5 and under)*	FREE

*Children must be accompanied by adults.

Tour groups may qualify for a 20% discount. To book a group tour, please contact us.

Special Tours & Events

Fort Escape!	Free	All day	Follow clues, solve puzzles, and search the Fort for the answers to the escape challenge.
Ghost Tour	Free	Hourly	Learn the tale of Eleanor Robinson. (30 min)
Heritage Cooking Workshop	$2	Hourly	Cook traditional bread over an open fire. (30 min)
Fire a Rifle (adults only)	$20	All day	With the guidance of a certified professional, learn to load and fire a Snider-Enfield rifle.

Guides are fluent in French and English, and are dressed in authentic clothing of the period.

School Programs

The Fort provides educational materials that conform to the provincial school curriculum. See http://www.fortrobinson.ca/school for details.

Hours: 9:00 a.m.–6:00 p.m.
Season: May 1–Sept. 30
Address: 1 Robinson Rd.
Contact: 1-204-242-2222
Web: www.fortrobinson.ca

Notice: Aug. 3–Sept. 30:
Renovations on grounds will restrict access to some areas. All areas will reopen in May of next year.

Read the following email message about the diagram on the left. Complete the email by filling in the blanks

Subject: To Customer Service
To: Fort Robinson Customer Service
<fortrobinsoncustomerservice@amail.com>
From: Richard Pascal <richardpascal@amail.com>

Dear Fort Robinson Customer Service,

I went to Fort Robinson last week, on August 30th. As an avid hunter, I was looking forward to the chance to 1._____. However, I was disappointed to find that option unavailable due to the 2._____. That was the primary purpose of my visit, and I had already paid the full price of 3._____ to enter the grounds. Because of this, I was hoping your organization could grant me free admission in the spring so that I would have another opportunity. By the way, while onsite I noticed children running around excitedly 4._____. I commend you on getting them so excited about history! I am an elementary school French teacher; are such game materials offered in French? How many people are needed for a group discount? Given that 5._____, a visit to the Fort could be a suitable field trip for my students. I look forward to hearing from you.

Best,

Richard Pascal

1. ◯ cook traditional food
   ◯ use a traditional rifle
   ◯ learn local history
   ◯ wear historical clothing

2. ◯ birthday event
   ◯ cooking workshop
   ◯ age restriction
   ◯ site renovations

3. ◯ $6
   ◯ $10
   ◯ $20
   ◯ $30

4. ◯ without supervision
   ◯ on self-guided tours
   ◯ following the Fort Escape! clues
   ◯ eating cookies and picnic food

5. ◯ students can enter for free
   ◯ the grounds have reopened
   ◯ the Fort has bilingual guides
   ◯ workshops occur every hour

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -

PART 2

Choose the best option.

6. What is the main purpose of this email?

- ◯ to complain about a guided tour
- ◯ to suggest a program change
- ◯ to make a group reservation
- ◯ to request free entry to the Fort

7. What can visitors to the Fort do at no extra cost?

- ◯ try on traditional clothing
- ◯ prepare traditional bread
- ◯ listen to a scary story
- ◯ visit on their birthday

8. What does the Fort offer school teachers?

- ◯ study materials for their class level
- ◯ free admission to Fort Robinson
- ◯ a discount on instructor admission
- ◯ worksheets in French and English

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -

PART 3

Read the following passage.

A. Although crying is universal to almost all human beings, this natural bodily function has received little attention from researchers, who know much more about how and in what ways we cry than why we cry. As a bodily process, crying involves the secretion of a salty, protein-rich fluid that is produced by both the tarsal and the lachrymal glands, located on the underside of our eyelids. Together these glands are responsible for the tear production process.

B. The tarsal glands constantly produce oily, nutrient-rich basal tears—up to 10 ounces a day—in order to lubricate and nourish our eyes during both our waking and sleeping hours. In contrast, reflex tears are produced by the lachrymal glands, primarily in order to flush out foreign particles in the eyes and to protect our eyes from irritants such as chemicals, allergens, or even vapours from raw onions. The glands that produce reflex tears are also responsible for emotional tears.

C. Of the three types of tears that humans produce, emotional tears puzzle scientists the most. Human beings seem to be the only animals that shed emotional tears. What mystifies experts is the question of whether or not there is a biological benefit to these tears and, if there isn't, why they were not weeded out in the process of evolution. As infants, it is advantageous for us to cry so that we will get fed or receive care if we are in pain. Why, though, do we continue to cry as adults? Some researchers argue that crying might be a sort of vestigial behaviour, persisting after infancy because it still serves to manipulate others into giving us what we want. Yet this theory does not account for why we cry in situations where we apparently have nothing to gain by doing so, such as at sad movies.

D. It is possible that emotional tears are a communication method of last resort—the only thing left when words fail us. Whether or not this is the case, emotional tears are associated with certain health advantages. Studies have shown that those who weep from time to time seem to have lower rates of ulcers, migraine headaches, heart problems, and other diseases. Perhaps, then, tears are the body's way of ridding itself of emotional toxins. Whether or not this is true, it seems reason enough to let go once in a while and have a "good cry."

E. Not given in any of the above paragraphs.

Decide which paragraph, A to D, has the information given in each statement below.

Select E if the information is not given in any of the paragraphs.

1. Researchers are unable to explain the purpose of tears in some contexts.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

2. Crying rinses dust and dirt from the eyes.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

3. Scientists know a lot about tear production.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

4. Adults cry less when they are sick.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

5. Salt and protein intake may have an effect on tear production.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

6. Crying may actually have positive health benefits.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

7. The connection between tears and feelings is uniquely human.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

8. Eye-cleansing tears have the same biological origin as emotion-purging tears.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

9. In non-human, primate species, crying serves a communicative purpose.

○ A ○ B ○ C ○ D ○ E

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -

PART 4

Read the following article from a website.

A recent study of 500 Canadian companies having 50 or more employees found that firms with predominantly female senior management have a higher return on investment than companies whose top tier is comprised of less than 45% women. Yet, overall, women occupy only 24% of the upper echelons. The study, says its author Peyton Zoldy, raises the question of why workplace gender imbalance still exists and how it's best addressed. "It's significant," says Zoldy, "because in twenty-first century Canada, people tend to believe, rightly or wrongly, that advancement is based on achievements, not chromosomes."

Lesley Ortlieb, who teaches organizational behaviour at the University of Manitoba, thinks the imbalance stems from women's reluctance to lobby for promotion. While men tend to jump at the chance to advance to senior positions, says Ortlieb, women hold back until they're sure they're ready. "Women often view self-promotion as somehow distasteful or dicey," Ortlieb says. "Risk aversion often holds them back. Ironically, this is a quality needed in upper management roles."

Dalhousie University business professor Cassidy Novak believes that breaking through the so-called glass ceiling into top management roles is up to women, who should promote themselves more. "Women are usually better educated than men," Novak says, "yet they're less able to visualize themselves in senior positions. Historically, business culture has stereotypically represented male talent, not female talent. It's up to women themselves to aspire to top positions and be more strategic about how to get there."

Nevertheless, Kris Starowitz, human resources professional at consulting firm Taylor Moreau, thinks gender diversity isn't the responsibility of women. "Women have lofty goals, but many companies don't recognize them. Senior managers need to take an active role in achieving workplace gender balance." For Starowitz, striving for gender balance is part of a good business strategy. "Companies must actively create an environment where women feel comfortable discussing their accomplishments and goals, because, ultimately, what's good for women is good for the company. In successful companies, what you see at all levels, including the top, is diversity. Talent is genderless."

Choose the best option according to the information given on the website.

1. Cassidy Novak says women need more _____

- ◯ training.
- ◯ expertise.
- ◯ boldness.
- ◯ seniority.

2. Which two experts have opposing views ?

- ◯ Zoldy and Ortlieb
- ◯ Novak and Starowitz
- ◯ Ortlieb and Novak
- ◯ Starowitz and Zoldy

3. Novak and Starowitz would likely agree that companies should _____

- ◯ consider other types of diversity.
- ◯ minimize workplace competition.
- ◯ encourage tactful self-promotion.
- ◯ promote the most educated employees.

4. What would Starowitz most likely support?

- ◯ transparent decision making
- ◯ increased autocratic management
- ◯ leadership workshops for women
- ◯ gender-based hiring quotas

5. A good title for this article would be "Workplace Gender Diversity: _____

- ◯ Historic Perspectives"
- ◯ An Even Playing Field At Last"
- ◯ The Origin of Stereotypes"
- ◯ Causes and Solutions"

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -

PART 4

The following is a comment by a visitor to the website page. Complete the comment by choosing the best option to fill in each blank.

I own a highly successful Toronto engineering company. My entire senior management team has XY chromosomes and facial hair but ranges in age from 28 to 80 and represents twelve countries of origin, nine ethnicities, and five first-language groups. So it's understandable that I 6._____ the study's findings. Nonetheless, as Starowitz acknowledges at the end, 7._____ . Companies value decisiveness, so surely the hesitation that holds anyone back from applying for promotion is sufficient reason to 8._____ . Hence, I am not convinced by Ortlieb's suggestion that companies benefit from 9._____ senior managers. However, I agree with what Ortlieb says about the traits of female executives and, in fact, think companies should give them 10._____ .

6. ◯ am skeptical of
   ◯ can acknowledge
   ◯ felt validated by ◯ took offense at

7. ◯ women may be more talented
   ◯ equity is valuable for organizations
   ◯ all people need a goal at work
   ◯ gender determines a person's success

8. ◯ support further education
   ◯ discourage their promotion
   ◯ consider changing positions
   ◯ deny public acknowledgement

9. ◯ skeptical
   ◯ introverted
   ◯ cautious
   ◯ fearless

10. ◯ pre-hiring personality profiling
    ◯ gender discrimination counselling
    ◯ mentoring by top executives
    ◯ ongoing assertiveness training

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -

Answer Key

PART 1
Question 1	writes reports on restaurants.
Question 2	they both soon regretted visiting.
Question 3	the waiter didn't help to clean up.
Question 4	was no better than Benny's lasagna.
Question 5	write a negative review of Le French.
Question 6	see Joan when she gets back from France.
Question 7	disappointing
Question 8	are better than
Question 9	writes a really bad review
Question 10	service
Question 11	go to a different restaurant

PART 2
Question 1	use a traditional rifle
Question 2	site renovations
Question 3	$10
Question 4	following the Fort Escape! clues
Question 5	the Fort has bilingual guides
Question 6	to request free entry to the Fort
Question 7	listen to a scary story
Question 8	study materials for their class level

PART 3
Question 1	C
Question 2	B
Question 3	A
Question 4	E
Question 5	E
Question 6	D
Question 7	C
Question 8	B
Question 9	E

PART 4
Question 1	boldness.
Question 2	Novak and Starowitz
Question 3	encourage tactful self-promotion.
Question 4	gender-based hiring quotas
Question 5	Causes and Solutions"
Question 6	am skeptical of
Question 7	equity is valuable for organizations
Question 8	discourage their promotion
Question 9	cautious
Question 10	ongoing assertiveness training

Conteúdo licenciado para Arezoo -